You can save more for retirement in 2024

As an investor, one way you can enhance your longterm retirement security is to fully leverage the potential of tax-advantaged retirement savings vehicles. Each year, the IRS recan contribute to these accounts. New contribution limits in 2024 allow you to ficial to take full advantage save even more this year through plans such as 401(k)s, 403(b)s and IRAs.

Changes to workplace savings limits workplace retirement accounts have been raised by $500 for the year 2024. In 2024, the IRS allows pre-tax employee contributions to 401(k) or 403(b) plans of:

• $23,000 for those under age 50

• $30,500 for those age 50 and older (includes a $7,500 "catch up" contribution).

When combined with employer contributions, a maximum of $69,000 can be directed to your workplace retirement plans in 2024 (plus the $7,500 catch-up contribution for those age 50 and older). Note that total contributions can't exceed your annual compensation at the company that houses your plan.

If offered by your employer, you may be able to 50 and older. make after-tax contributions to a Roth 401(k). Note that any after-tax contributions are counted toward the $69,000 total maximum limit for employee and leases new guidelines on employer contributions to the amount of money you workplace plans. Save an amount that makes sense for you, but it can be beneof any matching contribution offered by your employer. For example, if an employer offers to match up to 5% of your income Contribution limits for into a 401(k) if you make a similar contribution, it, in effect, means you're doubling your contribution for your retirement savings, before investment earnings are taken into account. can't exceed 100% of your earned income if you earn less than the limits stated above. Also, these limits apply to total IRA contributions for the year. This is applicable even if you hold multiple IRAs or make contributions to both Roth IRAs (which feature the potential for tax-free earnings growth) and traditional ĪRAs.

To make fully tax-deductible (pre-tax) traditional IRA contributions in 2024, your modified adjusted gross income cannot exceed:

• $77,000 for single or head-of-household tax fil-

$123,000 for married couples filing a joint return.

Not everyone can make maximum Řoth IRA contributions. In 2024, full Roth IRA contributions can only occur if your modified adjusted gross income is less Here's your weekly rundown of some of the most interesting headlines from newspapers across North Dakota.

Reeling in a big catch

Mike Koenig of Carrington started his taxidermy career as a hobby, and said of the intervening years since, "[It's] grown into much more than that."

Twenty-three years into that first plunge into the art of trophy wildlife presentation, one outstanding entry of Koenig's work has been honored as the best of its kind in the state.

At the North Dakota Taxidermists Association's (NDTA) 39th annual competition held March 7-10 in Bismarck, his reproduction perch took home the state championship plaques and ribbons in the masters division for that cate-

Woman injured in Valley City pedestrian crash

An 83-year-old Valley City woman was sent to the hospital with life-threatening injuries after being struck by a vehicle driven by an 85-year-old man from Page, N.D.

The pedestrian crash happened around 3 p.m. on Sunday, March 10 in Valley City. The names of the involved parties have not been released.

According to a report from the N.D. Highway Patrol, the Page man was driving a 2021 Ford Expedition at the time of

He was reportedly parked facing south along the roadway and reversed northbound in a counter-clockwise direction, striking two parked and unattended vehicles before continuing onto a sidewalk north of the roadway.

In the wrong place at the wrong time on that sidewalk was the 83-year-old woman.

The Expedition continued its trajectory even after striking the pedestrian, hitting another parked and unattended vehicle before finally coming to rest after striking an office/ apartment building.

The pedestrian was transported from the scene to Mercy hospital and later flown to Fargo by Sanford AirMed. No occupants inside the office building were injured.

Democrats choose familiar faces to run in new District 9

Democrats in the newly-redrawn District 9 gathered via the internet due to hazardous weather to select candidates for the N.D. House of Representatives. Former Rep. Marvin Nelson, who made the trek to Leeds despite the storm, said 95 delegates attended the convention and several guests also tuned in to the inaugural session. District 9 is the first in the state to encompass two Native American Reservations, Turtle Mountain and Spirit Lake.

It was created when a federal judge ruled that District 9A and 9B, which were shaped for the 2022 election, were not acceptable. The culmination of the convention led to the nomination of five people for two seats in the N.D. House of Represen-Incumbents Jayme Davis and Craig Poitra were chosen. Other candidates included Marvin Nelson, Ron Peltier and Collette Brown.
